Dr. James Tompkins

Welcomes Two Pediatricians

Eastern Shore Rural Health System, Inc. is proud to welcome two Pediatricians, Dr. Jeremy Siegrist and Dr. James Tompkins, to their organization. Dr. Siegrist joined the Onley Community Health Center and Dr. Tompkins joined the Atlantic Community Health Center.

Dr. Jeremy Siegrist received his undergraduate degree from Johns Hopkins University and graduated from Eastern Virginia Medical School (EVMS) in Norfolk, VA. While at EVMS, he spent pediatric rotations with the Children's Hospital of King's Daughters. His pediatric residency was at the University of Nevada School of Medicine in Las Vegas.

Dr. Siegrist has volunteered as a laboratory researcher and as Coordinator of a Reach Out and Read program as well as in many other capacities. He is a Kung Fu instructor, who is only one belt away from his black belt. He speaks Spanish & Italian in addition to English as his native language.

Dr. James Tompkins completed his undergraduate degree at Hampden-Sydney College and graduated from the Vanderbilt School of Medicine in Nashville, TN. His pediatric residency was served at the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond, VA. He has served in the US Navy and in private practice before coming to Eastern Shore Rural Health.

Dr. Tompkins is also active in the community, having served as Past Member and President of the South Boston Lions Club, Past Chairman of the Halifax United Way Campaign and Past President and Board Member of the Halifax United Way.
